CLERKENWELL & SOCIAL

Welcome to Clerkenwell & Social.

Within these pages you will find our cocktail list.

On May 6th 1806 the word "cocktail", as we know it, was first published in New York in "The Balance and Columbian Repository".

Here a Cocktail was defined as a mixture of spirits, sugar, water and bitters.

Having shape shifted for over 200 years, there are few that have stood the test of time. We have borrowed a select few and given them a twist with our tried and tested methods and techniques. These aren't ordinary cocktails, we call them 'infusion cocktails' because the spirits and ingredients we use aren't off the shelf - they are unique, in-house created infusions of spirits, liqueurs, syrups and bitters.

If you have any special request then please speak to one of the barmen who will be able to help.

Kaffirinha

Allegedly invented by Portuguese slave traders who used limes to prevent scurvy then realised that the Cachaça they had brought back from Brazil tasted much better when mixed with the limes. ### The Oscar Wilde

The Bellini was first invented in 1948 by Giuseppe Cipriani at Harry's Bar in Venice. We've named ours after Oscar Wilde who contributed the quote on our neon sign; Our version has a special blend of Prosecco, nectarine & elderflower, peach puree & home-made stone fruit bitters.

Much Ado About Rum

Another Shakespeare inspired name because we couldn't resist the pun. Dark Rum infused with tamarind juice and molasses shaken together with lemon juice and ice. Served with a sugar cane.

Breaking Good

We are massive fans, isn't everyone? We imagine Walter and Jesse would approve. Pisco infused with chili, lime juice, tarragon syrup, homemade bitters & egg white.
