A photograph of the Ante Chamber Private Dining Room. The room features a large, round, light-colored wooden table in the foreground, surrounded by dark green chairs. In the background, there is another round table set with white cloths and glassware. The walls are a warm, textured brown, and the room is lit by wall-mounted sconces. A large window on the left shows a view of a building with a clock tower. A whiteboard on a stand is visible on the right.
