

DID YOU KNOW?

The building that now houses The Parcel Yard pub was originally built in 1852 by the renowned architect Lewis Cubitt. Back in the day, it served as the Great Northern Railway's parcel office – essentially the Amazon warehouse of Victorian London.

This depot was once the beating heart of 19th-century logistics, connecting London to the rest of the country one crate at a time but as transport evolved, the building's purpose gradually changed.

Fast forward to 2014, and the long-disused depot was brought back to life as The Parcel Yard pub. Same building, new mission: serving craft beer, comfort food where walls that once stored freight now welcome friends, travellers, and locals.

Housed in a Grade I listed building the Parcel Yard is a true gem where the past meets the present.
